

ABSTRACT

A method and system for identification of primary seismic events in the presence of non-primary events (e.g. multiples) is provided in which coherency filters are used to avoid attenuation of primary events when attenuating multiples.